- New premises may mean big liabilities over your existing property or the new one.
- More employees increase the risk of claims so up to date contracts and policies needed also extra insurance.
- Any new owners need to be tied in to tight partnership or shareholder agreements.
- Increased finance is available from many sources - get advice on the risks and security involved.
- Newer client base or suppliers may need a tweak of your T&Cs or bespoke contract terms to protect the business.
- Mergers and joint ventures need expert advice and well-drafted agreements to avoid disaster.

"Without a clear plan, your growth phase could not only stall before it begins but you could damage your business"
